

Public Lecture:
Dr. Wolfgang Schluchter
*Professor of Sociology
University of Heidelberg*

"The Emergence of the Bourgeois Lifestyle"

Thursday,
November 22, 1990
8:30 p.m.
Room DL-200
(Senate Room)
Loyola Campus
7141 Sherbrooke St. West

Professor Schluchter is the author and editor of more than ten books on the thought of Max Weber. The following major works have appeared in English: Rationalism, Religion, and Domination: A Weberian Perspective (California, 1989); The Rise of Western Rationalism (California, 1981); and (with G. Roth) Max Weber's Vision of History.

Sponsors:
*The Goethe-Institut, Montreal
and the
Ph. D. in Humanities Program and Lonergan University College of Concordia University*

This is the third lecture in the 1990-91 series, "The Trajectory of Modernity," devoted to the examination of the ideas of the German sociologist, Max Weber, as contributions to a theory of modernity. The series is related to a seminar on the works of Max Weber which is offered by Lonergan College of Concordia University.

Concordia
UNIVERSITY